Share Aware overview

Share Aware, from NSPCC and O2, gives parents all the tools they need to have regular and informed conversations with their child about staying safe online. Under 20% of parents discuss online safety regularly with their children but we want to get every family talking about their child's life online, just as they would their day at school. Parents can sign up to the Icebreaker email series and become an expert in their child's online world in 6 weeks, follow our four simple steps to keeping kids safe online, watch our film 'Safety advice from a 10 year old' or visit Net Aware - our guide to your child's social networks apps and games.

The internet is a great place for kids to be, being Share Aware makes it safer.

Homework Projects

Well done to all the children who brought in their amazing homework projects!

For my project, I made a poster on water safety. Using recycling materials around my house, I created a 3D model of a water fall.

I made a model of the river Nile. I used some cardboard. I used different shades of blue to create a water effect. I did some research on the Nile and included these on a special poster.

'I made a poster about my monster. I wrote all the information so people get to know about him.'

'My monster was made out of a milk bottle and some spiky straw. My monster is called the strawfullo.'

I made a recycling poster using a plastic bag. I chose plastic because it is very bad for the environment and we need to recycle bags.

I used cardboard to make an eagle. Eagles are no longer endangered because humans have begun to protect them. My other homework project is the mathematical function machine to help people know how to add, subtract, multiply and divide.

I learnt that the sphynx is a statue with a human head a lion's body. His nose was broken off and no one could ever find it.

Making a home project was really fun and challenging. Our topic is about Ancient Egyptians and their pyramids.
