Happy Holidays!

As we come to the end of the autumn term, we would like to wish you a very peaceful and happy holiday.

Having worked hard all term under unusual circumstances, the children and staff are ready for a well earned break and the opportunity to recharge their batteries. As staff members, we've had a busy and productive term and are really proud of the progress the children have made so far.

As ever, we would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our families for their support and are looking forward to welcoming everyone back to school on Tuesday 5th January 2021.

Re: COVID-19 Testing Update

The number of cases of Covid-19 are rising in the borough, particularly in 12-17 year olds and young adults. Your child and the people they live with can now get a test at our testing centres even if they do not have any symptoms.

There are several testing centres available in and near to Southwark, including in Burgess Park and in Peckham town centre. To book a test please visit <https://www.gov.uk/get-coronavirus-test> and select the 'my council has asked me to get a test' option. The website will show you the nearest site to you with availability that day.

If your child or another member of your household test comes back positive your child and your household must self-isolate for a full 10 days after the date the test was done.

Getting tested is one of the most important things you can do to keep yourself and others safe this winter, so please do take up this offer. If you decide not to get to a test, but you or someone you live with develops symptoms, you must all self-isolate and the person who is unwell should book a test. If the test comes back as positive they and the people they live with should self-isolate for a full 10 days after the day they became unwell.

Dear Parent/Carers

We are sending this letter on the behalf of the African Caribbean Education Network (ACEN). If you think your child would benefit from this initiative please follow the instructions below to register your interest.

Once you have registered and if successful, your child will be involved in their 11+ preparation school which aims to get more Black children into independent and grammar schools.

The African Caribbean Education Network (ACEN) is a Community Interest Company founded to increase the equality of opportunity for African/Caribbean heritage children in independent & grammar schools. They aim to tackle structural inequality and directly impact the underrepresentation of Black people in decision-making positions over a generation by placing more Black children on the same trajectory as a large number of those who currently access the top universities and positions in the workplace.

We have spoken to a number of independent school heads who recognise the underrepresentation of Black children in these environments and are actively working with us on initiatives related to structural inequality and structural racism.

With coaching for strong exam performance, these children will be able to access fee assisted places (e.g. bursaries) in independent schools or stand in good stead to secure highly coveted grammar school places.

Classes will be delivered online, with an in person session held every half term (Covid-19 dependent) at Dulwich College. They will be led by a Y5 prep school class teacher with additional TA support offered on a 5:1 child to adult ratio.

ACEN is offering a limited number of fees assisted places for able children who would ordinarily be unable to access such an opportunity. Therefore, we are keen to hear from the parents of gifted students for both fee assisted and paid places.

The 12 Online Safety Tips of Christmas

FOR CHILDREN WITH NEW DEVICES

Christmas is almost upon us once again, and soon some lucky children will be excitedly tearing the wrapping off a new mobile phone, tablet or games console. For some of them, it will be the first time they've owned a device that connects them to the online world. Even for older children, a new device means new corners of the digital landscape to explore – and, unfortunately, new risks to be aware of.

We've put together our top tips so that you can guide your young ones in enjoying their new digital gifts safely and responsibly throughout the year to come. Merry Christmas!

1. ALWAYS SET A PASSWORD

If your child's new device has a password protection feature, use it! It'll help to keep their private information safe and will deny others access to their device without permission. Your children's passwords should be something memorable to them – but something which other people can't guess (it's a good idea for parents to write it down in case it gets forgotten!).

2. SET UP 'PARENTAL CONTROLS'

This really is an essential when your child gets a new device, so they're protected from the outset. Most phones, tablets and consoles allow you to customise their settings to determine which games your child can play, how they can communicate (and who with), what content they can access and so on. It will give you peace of mind that they can't inadvertently do something they shouldn't.

3. PAY ATTENTION TO AGE RATINGS

One of the first things children want to do with any new device is play games and explore apps. Before they download anything or install a new console game, check its age rating. Many popular games and apps have content that's not suitable for younger ages. The safest long-term solution is to adjust the device's settings so they can only download and use games and apps appropriate for their age.

4. KEEP NUMBERS AND DEVICES PRIVATE

Make sure your child understands that they should never share their phone number with someone they don't know or accept a friend request from them. They should also appreciate that it's a good idea to mainly keep their device out of sight, never lend it to a stranger, and never put it down somewhere that other people could steal it or take it to use without asking.

5. HAVE 'THE MONEY CONVERSATION'

Before your children start using their new device in earnest, talk to them about in-app purchases and other ways that money might be spent through their device. Once they understand, you might want to agree on a spending limit and reassure them that they can come to you if they're uncertain, or if they have made a purchase by accident.

6. DISCOURAGE DEVICE DEPENDENCY

Of course, children who've just got a new device will naturally want to spend as much time on it as possible. But whether they're zapping bad guys, watching videos or connecting with friends, it's easy for them to get attached very quickly. Gently remind them that having family time, going outdoors and getting some exercise are still fun, too. And the device will be there when they get back.

7. EXPLAIN SECURE WIFI NETWORKS

Your home WiFi is protected by a password that only your family knows, whereas public networks (like those found in coffee shops, for example) can be accessed by anyone. It's important that your child grasps this difference because, if they're using a portable device on an unsecured network, then a hacker could access their personal information without them even knowing.

8. LIMIT SCREEN TIME

Using a device for too long, especially just before bed, can interfere with a child's sleep quality and reduce their concentration and overall enthusiasm. It might be helpful to agree on certain times of day when they don't use their device. Most devices' settings let you specify a screen-time limit, helping your child to stay fresh and focused in order to perform well at school.

9. ONLY PAIR WITH KNOWN BLUETOOTH DEVICES

Your child may want to connect to another device via Bluetooth, so they can listen to music wirelessly or share pictures and videos with nearby friends. But if they use Bluetooth to link with a device that they don't know, they're at risk of a stranger being able to see their personal information or having someone transmit a virus onto their device.

10. TURN LOCATION SETTINGS OFF

It's safest to disable the device's location services (if it's a portable device) so your child doesn't inadvertently make other people aware of where they are. You can usually do this via the device's privacy control settings. Turning location settings off not only means your child's whereabouts can't be tracked by others, it also significantly extends battery life.

11. STAY AWARE OF THE SURROUNDINGS

It's quite common to see adults not looking where they're going while engrossed in their phone. Children are even more easily distracted. In some cases, children have been hit by cars or cyclists because they were staring at their device and lost track of where they were. Remind your child that screens and walking don't mix. If they need to use their device, they should stop in a safe place first.

12. BE THERE IF THEY NEED TO TALK

Even when you've made a device as secure as you can, there's still a possibility of your child seeing something that bothers them, or someone they don't know attempting to contact them. If this happens, listen to their concerns, empathise and reassure them. Once they've explained what happened, you can decide if you should take further action like blocking or reporting another user.
